

Dear Hiring Manager,

My name is Daniel Shu and I am a senior at California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo. I am a student that thrives on learning not only in an academic setting but also a real world environment. The position I am applying for appeals to me because I feel that it can give me the skillsets and experience I need to grow professionally. Studying abroad in London has widened my perceptions of the world and made me realize how I could contribute my intellect and abilities to be a piece of the puzzle. I have profuse customer service experience that I believe can make my transition into the position a lot smoother. Moreover, I have completed numerous projects in my finance classes that required Excel and my Excel skills have drastically improved from them. I am also future-oriented and a team player, and am willing to take on any task I believe would benefit my organization and myself.
